Section A

Answer Question 01.

Source A

From a telegram sent by James Farmer, National Director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) to President Kennedy, at the White House, 8 May 1963.

To the President.

The tactics of the Birmingham police appear to be aimed at intentionally provoking widescale violence. There can be no truce with the police if brutality and police lawlessness such as we witness in Birmingham continues. Even if the National Guard of Alabama succeed in quelling non-violent struggle in Birmingham, it will rise up again in place after place until such time as the President of the United States overcomes his fear of speaking out and decides to act forcefully to secure freedom of Negro Americans. Politics have for too long controlled government actions on civil rights. No compromise with justice is possible. The demonstrations in Birmingham must continue until the rights of all American citizens are secured. I urge you to do more than watch and wait while American citizens struggle against the armed might of tyranny in Alabama.

From a televised speech by President Kennedy delivered from the White House, 11 June 1963.

We preach freedom around the world and we cherish our freedom here at home, but are we to say to the world that this is the land of the free except for the Negroes? Now the time has come for this Nation to fulfil its promise. The events in Birmingham and elsewhere have increased the cries for equality so that no city or State or legislative body can choose to ignore them. The fires of frustration and discord are burning in every city, North and South. Redress is sought on the streets, in demonstrations, parades and protests which create tensions and threaten violence. We face a moral crisis as a country and a people. It cannot be met by repressive police action. It is a time to act. Next week I shall ask Congress to make a commitment to the proposition that race has no place in American life or law.
