Paper 2 Managing and Marketing Destinations

May/June 2024

MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 100

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the May/June 2024 series for most Cambridge IGCSE, Cambridge International A and AS Level and Cambridge Pre-U components, and some Cambridge O Level components.

This document consists of 19 printed pages.

Generic Marking Principles

These general marking principles must be applied by all examiners when marking candidate answers. They should be applied alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptions for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme will also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptors for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptors for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptors.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however; the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptors in mind.

Social Science-Specific Marking Principles (for point-based marking)*1 Components using point-based marking:

- Point marking is often used to reward knowledge, understanding and application of skills. We give credit where the candidate's answer shows relevant knowledge, understanding and application of skills in answering the question. We do not give credit where the answer shows confusion.

From this it follows that we:

- a DO credit answers which are worded differently from the mark scheme if they clearly convey the same meaning (unless the mark scheme requires a specific term)
- b DO credit alternative answers/examples which are not written in the mark scheme if they are correct
- c DO credit answers where candidates give more than one correct answer in one prompt/numbered/scaffolded space where extended writing is required rather than list-type answers. For example, questions that require n reasons (e.g. State two reasons ...).
- d DO NOT credit answers simply for using a 'key term' unless that is all that is required. (Check for evidence it is understood and not used wrongly.)
- e DO NOT credit answers which are obviously self-contradicting or trying to cover all possibilities
- f DO NOT give further credit for what is effectively repetition of a correct point already credited unless the language itself is being tested. This applies equally to 'mirror statements' (i.e. polluted/not polluted).
- g DO NOT require spellings to be correct, unless this is part of the test. However spellings of syllabus terms must allow for clear and unambiguous separation from other syllabus terms with which they may be confused (e.g. Corrasion/Corrosion).

2 Presentation of mark scheme:

- Slashes (/) or the word 'or' separate alternative ways of making the same point
- Semi colons (;) bullet points (•) or figures in brackets (1) separate different points
- Content in the answer column in brackets is for examiner information/context to clarify the marking but is not required to earn the mark (except Accounting syllabuses where they indicate negative numbers).

3 Calculation questions:

- The mark scheme will show the steps in the most likely correct method(s), the mark for each step, the correct answer(s) and the mark for each answer
- If working/explanation is considered essential for full credit, this will be indicated in the question paper and in the mark scheme. In all other instances, the correct answer to a calculation should be given full credit, even if no supporting working is shown
- Where the candidate uses a valid method which is not covered by the mark scheme, award equivalent marks for reaching equivalent stages
- Where an answer makes use of a candidate's own incorrect figure from previous working, the 'own figure rule' applies: full marks will be given if a correct and complete method is used. Further guidance will be included in the mark scheme where necessary and any exceptions to this general principle will be noted.

4 Annotation:

- For point marking, ticks can be used to indicate correct answers and crosses can be used to indicate wrong answers. There is no direct relationship between ticks and marks. Ticks have no defined meaning for levels of response marking
- For levels of response marking, the level awarded should be annotated on the script
- Other annotations will be used by examiners as agreed during standardisation, and the meaning will be understood by all examiners who marked that paper.

Assessment objectivesAO1 Knowledge and understanding

Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of facts, terms and concepts of travel and tourism.

AO2 Application

Apply knowledge and understanding of facts, terms and concepts to familiar and unfamiliar contexts in travel and tourism.

AO3 Analysis

Analyse travel and tourism issues and show an understanding of the possible impacts of those issues on travel and tourism.

AO4 Evaluation

Evaluate information to develop arguments, understand implications, draw inferences and make judgements, recommendations and decisions.

Table A

Use this table to give marks for each candidate response for Question 2.

Question	Answer	Marks
1(d)	Analyse the possible impacts of developing tourism in Tuvalu. Follow the point-based marking guidance at the top of this mark scheme and use Table B to give marks for each candidate response. AO2 out of three marks. AO3 out of three marks. AO4 out of three marks. Responses may include the following and any other valid points should be accepted: AO2 Application Positive <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Preserving environments and culture • Benefits locals with improved quality of life • Improvements in infrastructure Negative <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Environmental damage and loss of habitats • Impacts on locals AO3 Analysis Positive <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Promotes cultural awareness and can help preserve local culture and traditions. Local traditions and customs are kept alive because tourists enjoy traditional way of life. Locals are educated on the environment and how it can be made sustainable. • Locals will benefit from employment opportunities in both direct and indirect employment. This will lead to the multiplier effect as money earned will be spent in local shops. • Income from tourists can be used to develop local infrastructure and services e.g. new roads and airports. New facilities for the tourists also benefit locals. Negative <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Areas of outstanding natural beauty may be lost. Land will have to be cleared to build hotels, resorts and airports. Coral reefs can be damaged by divers and swimmers. • Often local people are employed in low skill, poorly paid work in unsatisfactory working conditions. Jobs will also be seasonal. Fishermen may lose the ability to make an income. Can destroy local culture and traditions. 	9

Question	Answer	Marks
1(d)	AO4 Evaluation Positive <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • As well as educating the locals on ways to protect and preserve the environment, natural features that attract tourists in the first place can be protected using income from tourism. Ecotourism can be offered which will continue to protect the environment. This will mean that tourists will want to continue visiting the destination. Tourists like to see and take part in cultural events and traditions which will help protect the local culture. • Tourists will want to try the local foods so there will be an increase in business for locals as well as offering opportunities for locals to open new businesses to cater for the increase in tourists. • In the developing countries, money can be spent on developing access to education, clean water and sanitation which will all go towards giving local people a much better quality of life. Access to education will improve the prospect of the younger generation. Negative <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • With the loss of land, it will result in the loss of a lot of habitats which can result in endangered species becoming extinct. Swimmers and divers on the coral reefs disturb the fish and destroy the reef. Some of the pristine beaches and untouched areas which would have attracted tourists in the first place may be lost or spoilt by development. Increased noise and air pollution from the construction of new accommodation and resorts. • Locals who work in the tourist industry will only earn money in the peak season and if they leave other jobs to work in tourism, they will have no income in the off-peak season. Fishermen will struggle to fish if the beaches are full of tourists and hotels. Religious locals may be offended by tourists and inappropriate clothing. Locals can start to copy the way of the tourists and become more westernised which results in a loss of culture. Leakage may occur if income is used to pay for imported goods or money goes out of the country to big companies and not locals. Prices increase in local shops as tourists are often wealthier than the local population.

Trust is critical for ensuring a positive and transparent reputation through engaging with the customers. • You can gain a competitive advantage over your competitors as you raise your visibility to multiple groups of people. AO4 Evaluation <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Organisations do not have to have a big budget for TV or magazine advertisements but can give them a sales boost through carefully chosen media and messages. Whichever method is used to conduct advertising it helps to raise the visibility of the organisations brand or products sold. The cost-benefit ratio must be looked at. If the money spent to reach customers exceeds the value these customers bring in, you may be wasting your investment unless the campaign is just trying to achieve greater brand awareness. • Organisations are able to build their knowledge base of what is and isn't working, what they should and shouldn't be doing in order to improve their reputation. To inform your target market about your latest products and services can build your reputation and engage customers which is absolutely vital. • Advertising attempts to engage with customers and tries to convince them that your products and services outdo the value of what your competitors have to offer and that they should therefore choose your organisation first and foremost. It helps you to move past competitors so that your organisation is 'top of the mind' of customer awareness, by highlighting what is different or unique about your organisation. 	9

This can help to preserve and conserve natural resources. Too many tourists at one time can put infrastructure under pressure, can create environmental and cultural site damage and make the local community unliveable for residents. • To ensure that cultural heritage does not die out or disappear, the knowledge and skills should be transferred. This can be done by sharing with others through education or taking part in the everyday activities and authentic tourist experiences. • Rural communities are involved in the management and decision making on how they are going to develop the area beneficially. By locals becoming involved they can use their local knowledge and resources. • Agritourism is a joint development of agricultural and rural tourism. It brings tourists and local communities together for mutual benefit. Many farmers have used agritourism to diversify and support their incomes. Locals have jobs providing accommodation, fresh food from the farms and waste free activities leading to the multiplier effect. 	9

This allows them also to provide more information to their clients through word of mouth or increased information in travel and tourism publications. • Travel agents, tour operators and sellers are able to supply perfect services to their clients based on their desires and needs. They are able to look out for specific features and characteristics clients would appreciate and suggest the best locations with a smooth booking process and can even negotiate excellent rates. This greatly benefits travellers as itineraries can be planned more easily if the staff they are working with have first-hand experience. Customers are given a personal glimpse into cultural expectations, safety issues and transportation availability. They also expand their professional network by building connections with other travel agents, suppliers and media. 	9

4(d)	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Media personnel, writers and editors are able to increase the content of their publications along with more specific details and photographs for future publications.
