Jean Duval was spending his holidays at a hotel in Bordeaux in France. He had arrived there two days before and he had enjoyed himself during that time. He found that there were a lot of interesting things to do.

In the morning, Jean decided to visit the splendid shops which he had seen in the centre. He wanted to buy some presents for his family. Then he went to look at the famous cathedral in the old quarter.

He was tired when he returned to his hotel – after all, he had visited many of the tourist attractions. However, since he was hungry, he immediately went down to the restaurant to have dinner.

Back in his bedroom, he undressed, and, after putting on his dressing gown, went to have a shower. The bathroom was at the end of the corridor. He heard his bedroom door close behind him and realised that he had left the key on the bed!

To his horror, he could not open the door! There was no-one in reception at that time so he lay down on the floor in the bathroom where he tried to sleep. Next time, he will not be so foolish!
