- 3 Übersetzen Sie ins Deutsche:

My grandmother was a small woman with grey curly hair. She lived alone in a cottage on the edge of a village. Her kitchen always smelled of biscuits and cakes.

I often visited her at the weekend. I loved eating what she had made but I most loved listening to her stories. Because she was the eldest of six children she had to look after her brothers and sisters.

She was always working at home and rarely went to school. She had neither a washing machine nor a vacuum cleaner but every day she had to clean everything. Unfortunately she did not learn to read.

When she was sixteen years old she began to work as a maid. At last she was able to earn her own money. During the day she had a lot to do but in the evening she tried to read.

She was hard-working and made much progress. She got to know a teacher and he helped her. She was very interested in novels. Soon she could write and so began her career as a writer.
