Answer one question.

1 Transport and the Environment

To what extent are the UK government's transport policies incompatible with meeting its environmental targets? [40]

2 China and the Global Economy

"China has been steadily intensifying its economic and strategic relations with low-income countries in recent years. By deepening trade ties and large-scale infrastructure financing through projects such as the Belt and Road Initiative, China has become an important 'donor' to low-income countries."

(Helena Vieria)

To what extent has China's approach to its economic and strategic relations with low-income countries improved the likelihood of both China and the global economy achieving their economic objectives? [40]

3 The Sustainable Development Goals and the Post-2015 Development Agenda

To what extent do you agree that the main barrier to achieving the Post-2015 Development Agenda has been financial constraints, but funding of a post-pandemic recovery gives a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for all economies to achieve green and sustainable growth? [40]

4 Behavioural Economics and Government Policy

To what extent do you agree with the view that government policies to overcome market failures should be based on behavioural economics, implying that policies based on traditional economics are no longer sufficient? [40]
